

Supporting families/carers with infants under 12 months experiencing food insecurity

(ie. not being able to maintain a steady supply of milk/food for under 12-month-old)

Context

UNICEF in partnership with the nation infant feeding network and first steps nutrition produced guidance specifically relating to infants who were at risk of experiencing food poverty 'A guide for local authorities and health boards supporting families with infants under 12 months experiencing food insecurity, (2022). UNICEF UK Baby Friendly Guide for Local Authorities and Health Boards

The key principles from the above guidance are:

- 1. A duty of care for the safeguarding of all infants under 12 months of age affected by family hardship, however they are fed.*
- 2. Provision of infant feeding support during financial hardship or food crisis that conforms to the World Health Assembly International Code of Marketing of Breastmilk Substitutes and subsequent resolutions (the Code).*
- 3. The development of pathways of wrap-around care which enable families to access additional services to meet ongoing needs.*

In response to the above principles and additional guidance for local authorities Bury's Breastfeeding Strategy Group co-produced the following pathway to capture existing good practice and to ensure consistency of approach. The breastfeeding strategy group has the following representation: health visiting (Infant Feeding Coordinator), hospital and community midwifery teams, Bury Live Well service, family hub/children's centres, and two Public Health Practitioners (Start Well and Food and Health). In addition, Bury children's social care, revenues and benefits and the citizens advice bureau were consulted and provided additional information as applicable.

Local implementation

The guidance raises concerns about incidents where incorrect formulas have been provided for infants. We have not had any reported incidents of this in Bury and have every confidence in the foodbanks/pantries and various teams within Bury that this has not and would not occur.

However, to implement the guidance and ensure a consistent approach to the safe provision of baby formula across all sectors the following flow chart has been devised to enable individuals supporting families to follow three steps:

Step 1: Are they currently receiving support from the Early Help Team or Children's Social Care?

Step 2: The range of support opportunities available to them, both for emergency support and longer-term financial stability.

Step 3: Ensuring that if the family are not receiving support via step 1 of this process that health visiting is informed to ensure families receive a holistic assessment to support them to reduce future crisis management.

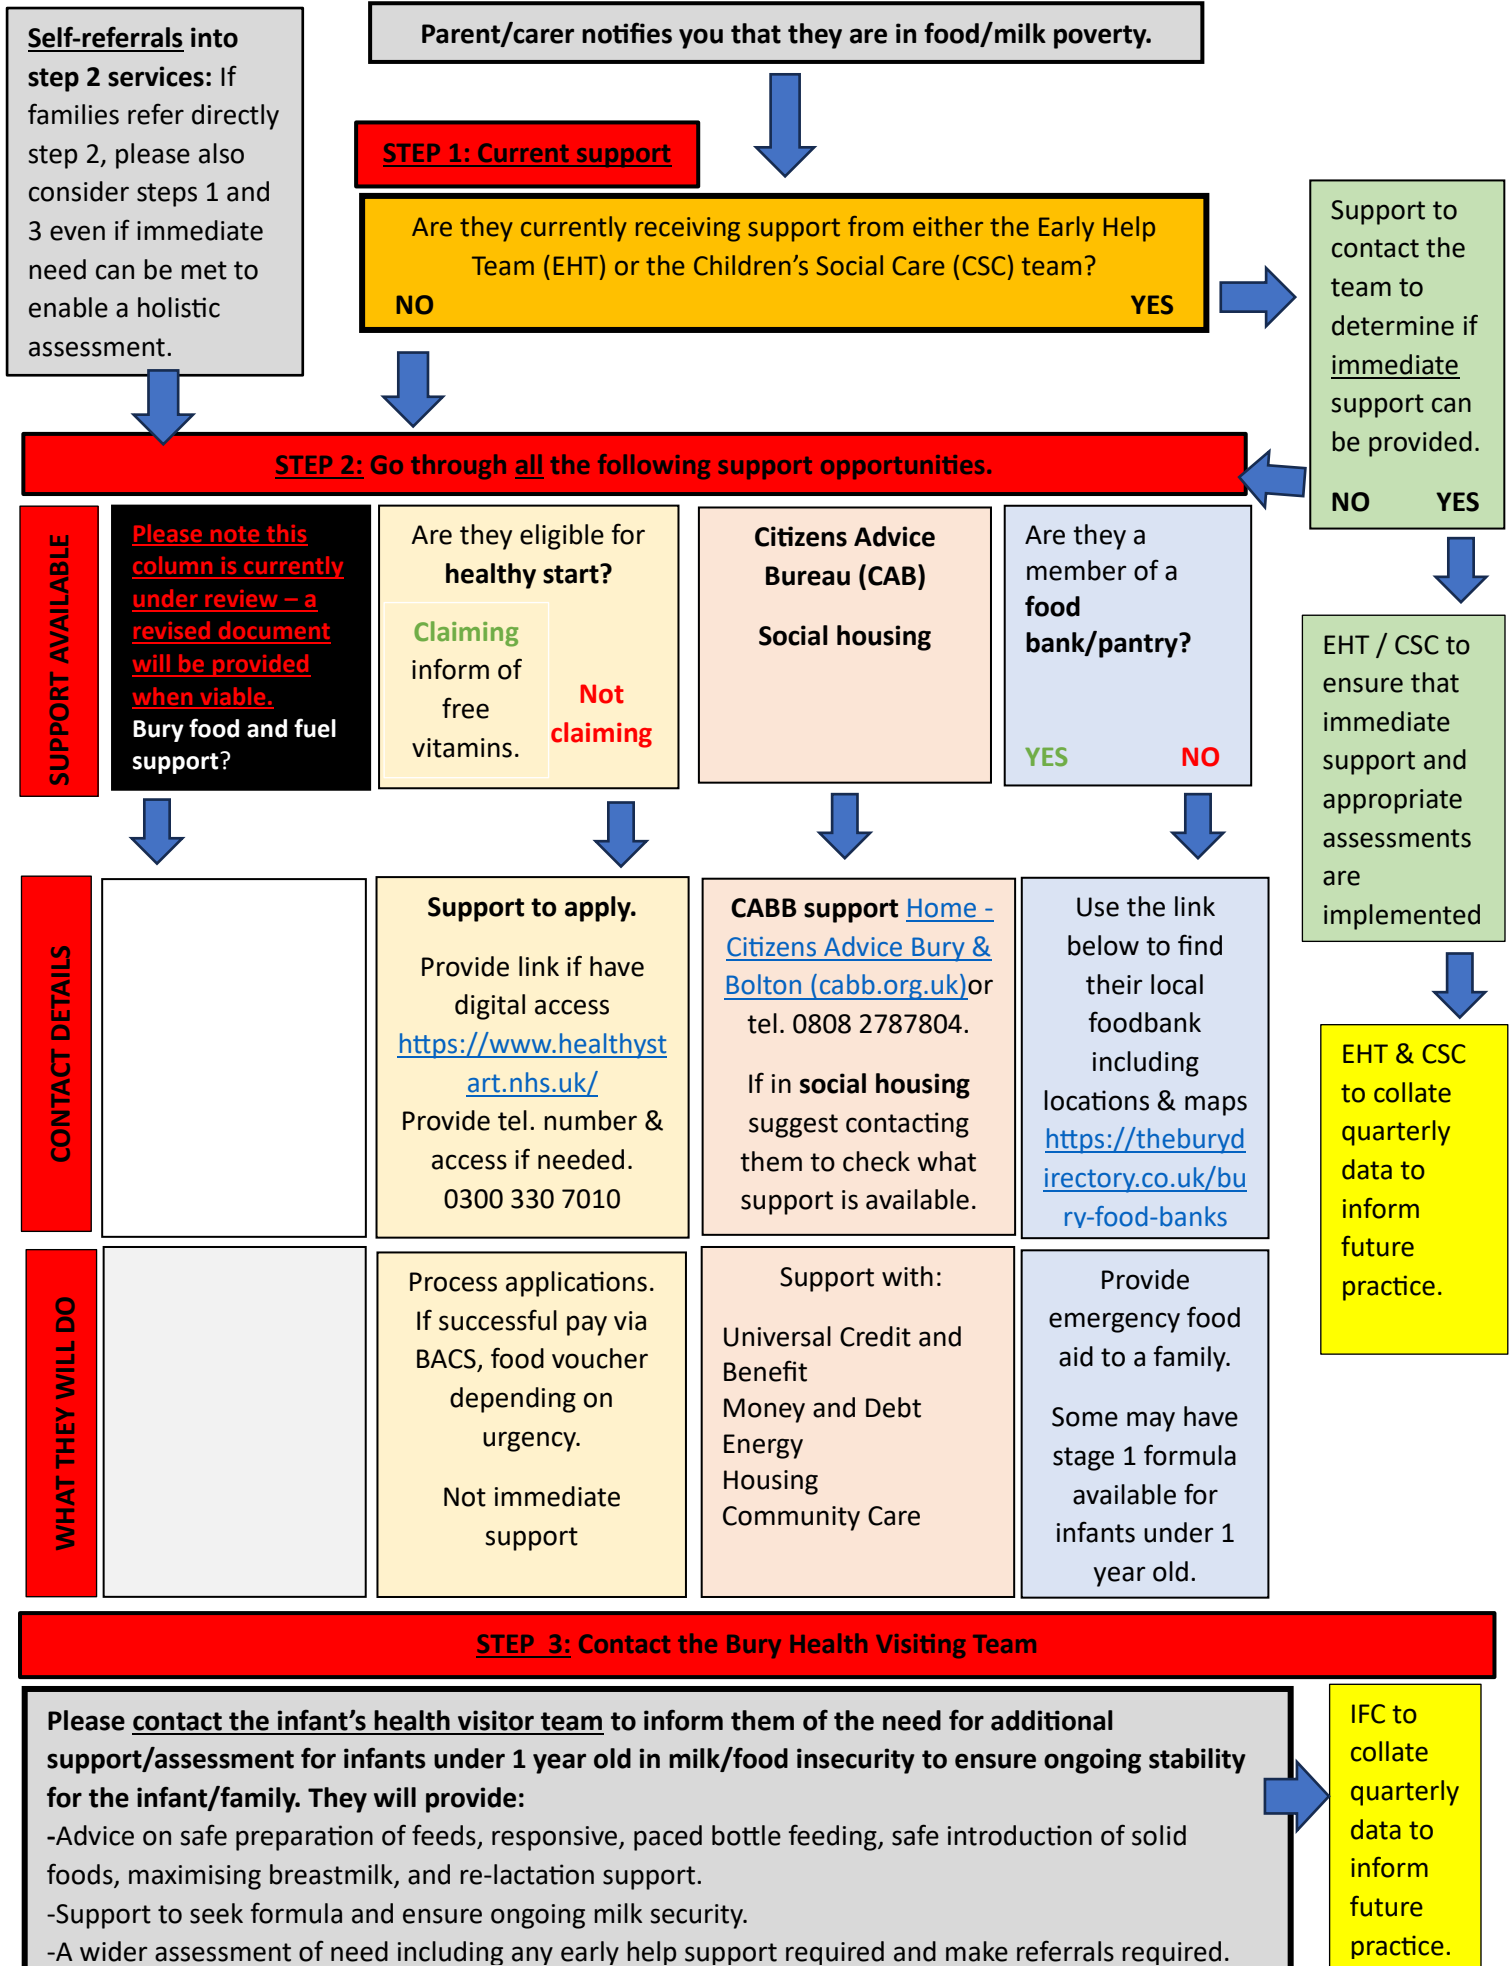

The pathway/flowchart will be shared across the system to ensure organisations/teams from all sectors who are supporting families in the community, are able to seek the appropriate support for families who report that they have an infant under 12 months and are experiencing food insecurity.

Data collection

It is vital that data is collated centrally moving forwards to ensure that infants and families receive the most effective and appropriate support possible. Therefore, systems will be put in place to enable this to be captured quarterly by the early help, social care, and health visiting teams. This data will then be reviewed and considered at the Breastfeeding Strategy group meeting.

- There are new guidelines on eligibility for people with no recourse to public funds.
- Under 18-year-old parents are automatically eligible.
- Applications are ordinarily done on line - all details can be found via this link How to apply – Get help to buy food and milk \(Healthy Start\)

Food banks/pantries (immediate support may be available)

Bury foodbanks/pantries are a life line for many families who turn to them for support in the first instance.

Food bank/pantry volunteers have good knowledge of the services available to support families with a wide range of issues, and regularly signpost families for additional support. This is vital in reducing the potential risk of families being delayed from being referred for further support they require and are eligible for.

Please be aware:

Nationally there have been reports of families receiving inappropriate formula for their babies, for example, if the baby is under six months old, a follow-on formula would be inappropriate and could cause harm.

- Babies require stage 1 formula for the first 12 months.
- Children over 1 do not need formula milk and can have water or full fat cow's / plant-based milk to drink.
- Where a baby is formula fed it isn't necessary to provide the same formula brand, however ONLY first stage formula should be offered. (Least expensive brands are similar to the most expensive as all brands have to comply with regulations).
- Bottles should be made up one at a time with water that is freshly boiled and 70 degrees or hotter to kill any bacteria which may be in powder (powdered milk is not a sterile substance).
- Discussions around paced, responsive bottle feeding can be provided by health visitors and via this UNICEF Infant formula and responsive bottle feeding links <https://www.unicef.org.uk/babyfriendly/baby-friendly-resources/>

Baby food

Babies do not need specialist baby food and can be given minimally processed family foods.

If baby food is given always check that it is in date and pouches and jars are sealed and present no risk to infant health. Food marked suitable for babies from 4 months of age should not be distributed as this contradicts UK health policy. Baby snacks aren't needed and can undermine the development of good eating habits for infants and young children.
